Looking ahead to the next 100 years

By Jessica Latour

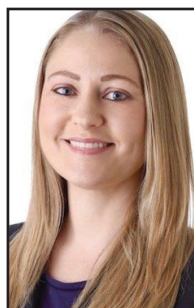

President

LWHS Alumni Foundation

2022 is almost over and it has been quite a year!

It was so wonderful to see everyone at our May luncheon and our Centennial events.

The Centennial Celebration at the Lake Worth Casino Ballroom has been my favorite event so far and I can't thank everyone enough who planned, contributed and attended! This was truly an event for the history books!

We have other plans in the works to celebrate 100 years and if you were unable to make it out in September, I hope to see you at a future event.

If you or any other alumni are interested in joining the foundation board, please reach out to me. We are also always open to hearing your ideas for events and suggestions for making our foundation even more wonderful!

Here's to the next 100 years!

Meet new principal

By Elena Villani

What a wonderful beginning and honor it is to join the Trojan family on its centennial anniversary as the new Principal!

From the moment I arrived, I have been welcomed with open arms and Trojan Pride! Our school is filled with so much history, traditions and memories. I am excited to continue those traditions and to be a part of memories in the years ahead.

We have kicked off creating memories on this Centennial year with a visit from the superintendent, school spirit week activities, our first pep rally, and Homecoming Dance; is it really only October?

It is definitely an exciting time to be a Trojan!

LWHS Principal Elena Villani often supervises the sprawling campus from a golf cart.

Wear Trojan pride: anniversary T-shirt

Our 100th anniversary T-shirts sell for $20 plus $5 S&H, if appropriate, all proceeds going to the Alumni Foundation. The men's all-cotton crew neck is white with maroon lettering in standard sizes SMALL to 3X.

The women's poly-cotton style is Maroon Frost with white lettering in sizes SMALL to XL, but the sizes run small.

I'm in Lake Worth at least once a month, and happy to deliver on my way.

May 24 marked the return to in-person events for the Alumni Foundation, our annual membership luncheon, attended by more than 40 Foundation members, supporters and students. The JROTC honor guard presented the colors and led us in the Pledge of Allegiance. Members of the Trojan Pride chorus serenaded the crowd, led by interim director, Simone Stoddard. The event raised $72 through our standard 50/50 raffle, which was won by your humble editor. While financial support for the Foundation/Dollars for Scholars is important, most of those attending welcomed the chance to see each other in person.

No strangers among grads

By Ann Carter/Editor

As the Alumni Foundation and our friends put together the celebration of the LWHS centennial, a few people asked about who was going to be there, suggesting they might attend if they would know other people there. I'm here to tell you that there are no strangers from LWHS.

My centennial weekend started with happy hour at Irish Brigade. As usual, Carol Childs Webster brought a posse from the class of 1966, so I met several people who had graduated with my sister, Mary. The next afternoon, I showed up at the Baseball Alumni Golf Tournament to sell 100th Anniversary T-shirts, and met Katie Marcum, whose grandfather was a coach when I was a student. At that evening's gala, Nancy Farnsworth (1971) and her husband sat at my table. Nancy and I were in drama class back in the day, plus Nancy's sister Joy was in my class (1972) and another sister, Diane Farnsworth Kachmar (1975), had sat with me at the Foundation's 2016 Million-dollar dinner. Across from me was Harry Seifert (1968), whose brother Tony was in my class; we went through 12 years of public school together. Tony, a good dancer, was supposed to be there, but a health issue kept him away. Harry's friend was Mike Smollen (1969), who had been a firefighter for four decades, working closely with my cousin Ray (1968), in West Palm Beach and Boynton Beach.

The following day's picnic at Sunset Ridge Park brought out a fruit ice vendor, Joe XXXX (1998). His mother, Trudy Lowe, was in my class. I told him a tale of his mom and George McRae demonstrating the funky chicken — a dance move in the late 1960s — in the music room. He said it sounded like something she would do. On Monday morning, after a weekend of finding all these connections, I walked into LWHS Principal Elena Villani's office to find her talking to her boss, Karen Whetsell, who is married to one of my childhood friends. Six degrees of Lake Worth. Attend a Foundation event and find out how many people you'll know.

As much as I enjoy attending Foundation events and reunions, I no longer live in South Florida. I'm asking others to help cover school-related events from the official to the tangential. All of these happenings help us connect back to the school. If you attend a class reunion, a lunch, a sporting event or anything associated with LWHS, send me a photo or two, IDs if possible, and a description of what's happening. Even if you see me there, send me your pix. E-mail them to anncarter@rocketmail.com or text 954-471-5758.

Hundred-year homecoming

A special section of Bill Harvey Stadium was set aside for the Alumni Foundation. 1974 won the "Class War," with three attendees. The game was played a few days after the scheduled Sept. 30 date because Hurricane Ian blew through Florida, affecting both attendance and the band's appearance. The Trojans fell to Santaluces 30-0.

100 Years ... a

Alumni Foundation members, LWHS staff and faculty, DFS supporters join to cheer a century of Trojan history

The rain didn't dampen the school spirit as the Lake Worth High School Alumni Foundation partied like it was 1999.

More than 100 graduates, faculty, local dignitaries and supporters filled the Lake Worth Casino Ballroom on Sept. 17 to celebrate the centennial of the school, which opened on Sept. 18, 1922.

The Junior ROTC opened the action, presenting the colors for the Pledge of Allegiance, led by Alumni News Editor Ann Carter (1972). Alumni Foundation President Jessica Latour (2002) emceed as Maggie Shamo Witherow (1949) led the invocation.

LWHS Alumni Foundation founder and former LWHS principal David Cantley ran through the high points of the school's history, emphasizing that details could be found in Lake Worth High School: A History, by the late Bill McGoun (1956).

The dinner buffet was accompanied by music from the Trojan Pride chorus and the Trojan Sound marching band, all punctuated by raffle drawings of gifts of all kinds for places across the state.

Once the DJ started pushing the tunes, the dance floor was seldom empty. Current LWHS Principal Elena Villani and her cousin wowed us with their salsa dancing.

Local dignitaries included School Board member Erica Whitfield, Lake Worth Mayor Betty Resch, vice mayor Christopher McVoy, commissioners Kimberly Stokes (class of 1999) and Reinaldo Diaz and also the city manager, Carmen Davis.

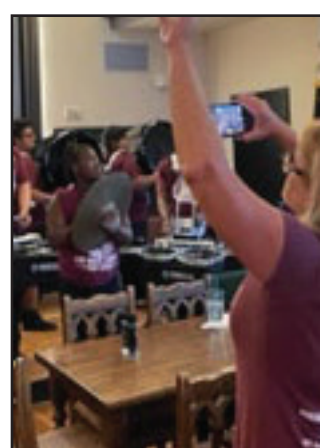

At right: Trojan Pride singers, directed by John Weatherspoon, wait to perform.

The weekend started with a Sept. 16 happy hour at Irish Brigade on Lake Avenue at K Street. (A 100th anniversary T-shirt if you tell me what was in that location when you were at LWHS.) Faculty and staff were the first arrivals, Manouchka Lovanice pointing out that she graduated in 1994, I graduated in 1972, so we were 22 twins, the difference in our graduation years. Manouchka teaches math at LWHS. Carol Webster brought her group from the class of 1966, and Mike Smith (1978) and Jill Riseley-Lager (1980) kicked it up a notch. The group was talking like we left school last week, when Dr. Tiffany Cox and the Trojan Sound drum line marched in. The band was getting ready for competition the next week. My count of the attendance was about 60-75 alumni, faculty and staff. We closed out our official evening about 7 p.m., but someone from the class of 1982 — who happened to be having dinner there — was still talking to other alumni.

The final piece of our Centennial trilogy was a picnic at Sunset Ridge Park on Sunday afternoon. Manouchka Lovanice was our greeter, and a hot dog vendor, a fruit ice cart (captained by Joe, class of 1998 and son of my classmate, Trudy Lowe), an ice cream truck and 30 or so alumni were there. The rain held off until almost 3, bringing our time to a premature end.

There was a crowd from the early 60s, while several of us from the 1970s were there. We did a count on who was there from each decade of the school.

Dr. Annette Grimes Gilbert (1975), right, had pushed for the picnic, but was fighting CoVid for most of the weekend.

Board member Dr. Helen Gilmore

Dr. Helen M. Gilmore (89) passed away, August 12, just five days short of her 90th birthday.

Helen was born, August 17, 1932, to the late Edward and Bertha Moore in Lake Worth, FL. She graduated from Lake Worth High (Class of 1950). She then earned a Bachelor's and a Master's Degree from Florida Atlantic University and a Doctorate in Early Childhood Education from Nova Southeastern University. Helen taught at Palm Beach Public School and served as a Specialist for Gifted Education for the Palm Beach School District. She taught as an Adjunct Professor for Nova University for more than 40 years. After retiring from the School District, Helen operated the Helen Gilmore Learning Center, a tutoring center in Lantana. Among other accomplishments Helen was President of the American Association of University Women and also the National Association of Women Business Owners chapter in Palm Beach County. Helen was a licensed pilot and flew the family Cessna 182 and Piper Arrow.

Helen is survived by her husband of 72 years, Harold Gilmore; son, Steve Gilmore (Patricia), of Brisbane, AU; daughters, Janet Washburn (Edgar) and CeCe Skinner, of Ft. Pierce. Also surviving are six grandchildren; and eight great-grandchildren; and two sisters, Linda Moore and Cynthia Moore.

Memorial donations may be made to Lake Worth High School Dollars for Scholars at DFS c/o Mike Woods, 4731 Cypress Drive S., Boynton Beach, 33436 or United Methodist Church of the Palm Beaches, 900 Brandywine Rd., WPB, 33409

Harold Gilmore finishes family remembrances of his wife, Dr. Helen L. Gilmore, at a memorial service in August.

By Ann Carter

This was the information shared in the Palm Beach Post, written by Harold Gilmore. While informative, Harold's words miss some of the zest of Helen's life. So I'll share a few things I learned at her funeral. Their son, Steve, talked about his amazing mom and her advice when he married. She said that while togetherness is paramount, a couple also need to spend time apart, even if it's just sitting across the room reading the newspaper. Steve said he now understood all the times he found his father across the room reading the newspaper.

Helen's granddaughter, Janelle Washburn, discussed the grandma who never stopped teaching. Trips to the beach included naming things in the car from A-Z.

Helen's daughter, CeCe Skinner, talked about her mom's spirit, including going sky diving at age 65. CeCe thought that was great, but didn't understand why Helen had to have her hair done before jumping out of an airplane. (Photographic evidence of the jump was part of the photo montage)

Harold shared a conversation when he and Helen were teens, talking about what Helen could do for income when they married. Helen thought she might be a hairdresser, but that career path faded. When their church started a pre-school, Helen thought that might be interesting. Before too long, she was attending Palm Beach Junior College, then driving her VW Beetle to Boca Raton to complete her degrees up to a Ed.D. We note that these trips preceded Interstate 95, so Helen was driving U.S. 1, Congress and Military Trail to get to FAU.

As their lives and horizons expanded, Harold learned to fly, then Helen got her pilot's license. Harold also pointed out that in all of Helen's endeavors she pushed herself to the top of the heap. As a teacher, she got her doctorate, and eventually became the Gifted Children Specialist for the Palm Beach School District. After opening the Gilmore Learning Center, tutoring in many ways — including helping someone pass his state contractor's exam — she became the president of the county chapter of the National Association of Women Business Owners.

Harold ended with a tale of two students showing up for tutoring at the same time, both with appointments for that time. Helen said she would waive the fee for the time if the two would agree to combined tutoring. She worked with them on adjectives, then asked if they would be nice and use an adjective to describe her. One boy said, "old," while the other said, "wrinkled." Even after all those years in the classroom, Helen could be surprised. And I expect, delighted that the students were honest.

LWHS historian Bill McGoun

By Desiree Ballard

William "Bill" McGoun, 84, died peacefully May 4, 2022, with his son and daughter-in-law by his side in Coral Springs, Fla.

Bill is preceded in death by his wife, Bonnie, and parents Edwin and Dorothea McGoun. Left to cherish his memory are his three children, Michael McGoun and wife Adriana, Brandy Knisley, Desiree Ballard and husband Greg, sister Madalyn McGoun, four grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren, a cousin and host of valued friends and colleagues.

Bill was born August 31, 1937, in New Castle, Pa., and moved to South Florida as a child. He graduated from Lake Worth High School in 1955 and attended Palm Beach Junior College where he discovered his love for writing. He graduated from Florida Atlantic University in 1981 with his Master's degree in Anthropology and graduated from the University of Florida in 1989 with his Ph.D. in Anthropology. He was inducted into Phi Beta Kappa, the oldest and most prestigious honor society in America, in December 1989. He was a committed Gator fan and enjoyed watching games with his son.

Bill worked for Fort Lauderdale News, Miami Herald, Palm Beach Post where he retired and as a Contributing Editor at The Asheville Citizen Times until October 2021.

Once retired, Bill and Bonnie moved to the Smoky Mountains (Bryson City). He said many times this was his dream home, a place with a great view and a large in-home library.

Bill and Bonnie experienced all the world had to offer. Even after her passing in 2015, Bill continued his travels visiting his son and family in Coral Springs, cousin Bob in Pensacola, daughters in Dallas, grandson attending MSU - Starkville, MS and a grandson and family in Okinawa.

Bill believed in the power of an education. He loved the arts, music, his family, and books. He volunteered at the Friends of the Marianna Black Library Used Bookstore in Bryson City, NC.

A private service will be held at a later date. Donations in his memory may be sent to: Marianna Black Library, 33 Fryemont St., Bryson City, NC 28713

To Bill's friends and colleagues — thank you for your friendship and inspiration over the years.

Transitions and celebrations mark eventful year for DFS

By Lady Hereford

President/Dollars for Scholars

Much has happened since our update last spring. I'll begin with a huge thank you to former President Paul Blockson, who kept Dollars for Scholars moving forward through the pandemic while maintaining the high standard of leadership set by past presidents Rock Tate and Dave Cantley. Like his predecessors, Paul remains an active supporter of DFS. We are grateful to them all for their unwavering dedication to Lake Worth students.

As you undoubtedly have read throughout this issue, Lake Worth Community High School had much to celebrate this year. The same can be said for DFS. This spring, 39 students were selected to receive scholarships – gifts that were made possible through the generosity of many donors over the years. There is always a great sense of excitement when new scholarship endowments are established. All of them create a legacy that will benefit students for years to come. If establishing an endowment is something you have been contemplating, please reach out to us at any time to learn more.

The Barry Grunow Memorial Scholarship, which is administered by DFS, continues to serve as an example of this type of enduring legacy. As many of you read recently in the Palm Beach Post, Barry's colleague and friend, Dr. Jeffrey Neal, has pledged a portion of the sales of his book, What a Long Strange It's Been, to the scholarship fund. (The unusual title is explained in the book.) I have to say that while parts of this memoir are difficult to read, there are also many life-affirming and inspirational stories within it. The book is available through Amazon.com and Barnes & Noble as well as the following link: <https://bookstore.dorrancepub->

lishing.com/what-a-long-strange-its-been/ Speaking of the Barry Grunow Memorial Scholarship, at the time of this writing several volunteers were busy organizing a fundraiser in honor of MaryAnne Hedrick. MaryAnne was a well-known educator and longtime friend of DFS. Proceeds from the Oct. 29 event will benefit the Grunow scholarship, a fund that has flourished in large part because of MaryAnne's fundraising efforts.

As a reminder, we're always looking for volunteers to help DFS stay vibrant and strong. The power of volunteerism was on full display during the Centennial Celebration weekend, which owes its success to a core group of committed volunteers from many segments of the community. We know there are other LWCHS alumni and friends who are looking to share their time and talents. I hope you'll consider joining DFS in our mission of helping students achieve their educational goals.
